BENEFITS OF TELEHEALTH

Telehealth benefits patients, providers, payors, and the entire healthcare system.

Access to Care
For patients who are located in rural or medically underserved areas with limited access to clinical specialty care, telehealth provides linkage to much-needed care.

CKF Addiction Treatment is able to provide patients with direct access to a highly specialized team of addiction professionals, delivering individualized care to patients safely and securely.

Improved Quality
Increased access to health and care through technology means that we are able to quickly assess and diagnose symptoms and complications.

In addition, early detection of addiction health issues may lead to better overall health of the patient, reduction in acute care/hospitalizations, and positive patient health outcomes.

Cost Effective
Telehealth can reduce the cost of health and care and increase efficiency through better care coordination, and overall management of the complex and chronic disease of addiction.
